五、 Elephants are in danger

Elephants are very big and strong. They are grey and have long trunks and tusks.

Elephants have poor eyesight, but very good hearing and smell. They can carry heavy things and they can walk on tiptoe easily.

Elephants are very friendly to each other and to people. They can even work for people.

Sadly, there are very few elephants left in the world. The number is getting smaller and smaller. If people keep taking their land, elephants will have no place to live. Also, people hunt them for their tusks. We must stop this. If we don't take any actions, there will be no elephants left in the world.

九、Dear Jack,

How are you?

On this year's National Day, I went on a trip to Beijing with my parents. It took us about two hours and a half to get there by plane. We visited a lot of places of interest, such as the Great Wall, Tian'anmen Square and the History Museum. We also visited the famous Bird Nest. We were very excited because we Chinese held the 29th Olympic Games there last summer holiday. We had a good time there. I hope to visit Beijing again.

Can you tell me something about your trip? I hope to hear from you soon.

Yours,
Li Hua

C. Dear editor of Yangzi Evening newspaper:

Please help us save the wetlands.

Yuejun Company wants to build a golf court there. The animals living there will die.

Many of them are endangered! Many plants in the wetlands do not grow anywhere else.

Wetlands are helpful. They clean our water in a natural way. It is impossible to build a place to clean our water.

Our government is working hard to protect the wetlands. People will be sad if the company makes them into a golf court.

Please tell Yuejun Company to build the golf court in another place!

Yours sincerely

九、A strong earthquake hit the north-west of Japan on March 11th, 2011. The earthquake together with tsunamis caused huge waves. The waves washed away the villages and destroyed the farmland. Thousands of people became homeless. What was worse, the earthquake caused terrible pollution because of the nuclear power station explosion.

Luckily, the soldiers tried to search for the lost people and save the people trapped in the earthquake. Many countries including China have sent rescues to help people in need. Scientists are trying different ways to control the pollution.
